

Butlin's United Kingdom

Project

As one of the UK's largest leisure companies operating in the UK, Butlin's wanted Sherwin-Williams to specify a floor finish for its kitchen and front of house serving area.

Butlin's wanted to find an alternative to traditional systems that would perform against the day to day usage of the kitchen. Separately, the serving area required a product that had more decorative features, without compromising its anti-slip properties.

Substrate: Concrete.

Requirements: To provide an alternative for the kitchen area and separately the serving area.

Specifications: Meeting all relevant environmental and health and safety regulations.

Client: Butlin's.

System

For the kitchen areas, the chosen system specified was Resuthane™ CB in a Garnet colour - part of its Cristalbright colour range - for its long life expectancy and its anti-slip properties.

Other features that prove important are its thermal shock properties which are able to cope with the day-to-day running of high temperature ovens and cookers along with the hot liquids that could be potentially spilt on to the floor surface.

Resuthane™ CB gives a textured matt finish on application, making it ideal for environments requiring high levels of slip resistance.

Upon inspection, the system specified for the serving areas was Resuscreed™ Quartz in a bespoke Carmine bright red to match its red coat corporate colour. This made it an ideal choice as it is a very hard-wearing system that has excellent slip resistance. Resuscreed™ Quartz also has an attractive aesthetic look, making the environment bright and appealing.

The results were two floor areas that would stand the test of time and fit the client brief perfectly.

The Sherwin-Williams Difference

By putting our customers first, we know that the innovation, imagination, research and development we put into each and every product will be worth it. You are at the centre of our thinking wherever we operate around the world across five continents whether it is advice, specification or on-site inspection. You are the reason we exist. This is the Sherwin-Williams difference.
